Russia and Western Allies Appear to be at Parting of Ways

Meeting of Foreign Ministers at Paris Ends in Disagreement

Paris, July 13.—(AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes declared today he wanted another foreign ministers council to take place immediately after the impending peace conference adopts the peace treaties.

His statement to urge another foreign ministers session prior to the United Nations meeting in New York, tentatively set for Sept. 23, was disclosed at a press conference before he explained for Washington.

Reviewing the council's work, Byrnes remarked that internationalization of Trieste would be a good experiment in international cooperation.

Byrnes said he had not hesitated to accept compromises on the European peace treaties because "if we had not gotten a treaty we would have had a clash that nobody wants. Therefore we did not hesitate wherever there was any possibility to reach

Score of Filipino Women Are Seized

Tarluz, Luzon, P. I., July 13.—(AP)—Twenty Filipino women were kidnapped today at the nearby village of Mayantoc by an armed band which Philippine army military police identified as members of the peasant irregular guerrilla organization, the Hukbalahaps.

The military police said the kidnapping was apparently an aftermath of the clash between MPs and Hukks near the village July 9 when 38 Hukks and one MP were slain. Unable to provide a motive for the mass abductions, the MP officials speculated it might have resulted from an attempt to "recruit" camp cooks and workers. Distraught provincial officials said they had good hopes the women would not be physically mistreated.

Meanwhile, at Lubao to the southward in Pangasinan province, a bloody clash between the Hukks and a group of MPs reinforced with civilian guards went into its second day.

Use Mortars Against Hukks
Reliable reports of yesterday's fighting said an entire detachment of 50 civilian guards had been slain. There was no estimate of casualties suffered by the Hukbalahaps.

MPs started using mortars today against the entrenched peasants who are equipped with .50-caliber machineguns. Maj. Tiburcio Ballestrero, Pangasinan province provost marshal, reported the MPs and guards had the Hukks surrounded and that their surrender was but a matter of time.

Lubao is about 10 miles southward of San Fernando, provincial capital.

The Philippine army reported in Manila that final surrender notices were being prepared for distribution to all Hukbalahap bands and that unless the ultimatum was accepted, "large scale action" would be taken.

House Nears Final Vote on Proposed Loan to John Bull

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—A final vote was expected in the house today on the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan, with proponents arguing that the outcome will determine whether the world looks to Washington or Moscow for leadership.

Critics contended Russia might consider the loan an "overt act," and said it is more likely to promote war than peace.

As the house came to the showdown, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), predicted ratification by 20 to 50 votes. The senate was expected to vote 46 to 54.

The latest polls or house members showed 188 for the credit with 163 against and 82 undecided or not reached. The polltakers report on Republicans was 30 for, 141 against, 21 not reporting; on Democrats, 158 for, 22 against and 59 not reporting. The two minor party members were not included in the poll, which was taken by Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), for Democrats and by Rep. Landis (R-Ind.), for Republicans.

To Vote on Collateral
First major test today was expected to come on an amendment by Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.), proposing that Britain put up collateral for any money advanced. His amendment is expected to follow advice of Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce, who has listed British holdings in America and elsewhere that might be posted as security.

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.), told the house Britain is "America's natural buffer state" against aggression and is the "oldest and most-to-be-trusted ally."

The Democratic leader, Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, said the world is watching the house vote and if America adopts isolationism it will leave "practically all of the other nations of the world, against their will and desires, subject to the influence, gravity and the orbit of the Soviet Union."

Rep. McDouough (R-Calif.), asked if Russia would not look upon the British agreement as "an overt act." McCormack said not at all and argued the loan would promote peace by taking shackles off world trade.

Interest Begins 1951
The 50 year loan, under the agreement, would be advanced to the British during the next five years, with no interest during that time. Interest at two percent

Induction of Men Through Age 35 Under Army's Consideration

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—The war department says it may be necessary in the future "to consider the induction of men through age 35," but it has "not recommended to the president that the top draft age be raised from 29 to 35 years."

This statement was issued last night after an official close to draft policy had told reporters he understood such a recommendation already had been made.

Advised of the war department's statement, this official, who asked not to be quoted by name, said all selective service plans are based on upping the age limit from 29 to 35, when induction calls are resumed in September.

The Army's press memorandum said:

Atomic Commission of United Nations Against Russ Vote

Committee Nears Showdown; Charter May Undergo Changes

New York, July 13.—(AP)—Advocates of Australian-American proposals for an autonomous international atomic control agency pushed ahead doggedly today on a course which may lead to a decisive showdown with Russia over the big power veto in the United Nations.

These proponents conceded that Russia could block any move to amend the Charter on the veto question, simply by invoking the veto itself. Nevertheless, they proceeded on their course, with the suggestion that the charter and the set-up of the UN itself might prove to be outmoded in the atomic age.

These factors emerged after yesterday's acrimonious three-hour session of the 12-nation working committee at which:

1—The retiring atomic chairman, Foreign Minister Herbert V. Ewart of Australia, rejected the Russian atomic plan as "impossible."

2—Bernard M. Baruch of the United States, said Ewart's summation as chairman "conforms basically to the United States proposals." Apparently referring to a Russian demand for immediate destruction of atom bombs, Baruch added that "a solemn expression of pious intent is not sufficient x x x protection."

3—Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said he saw no reason why exchange of atomic secrets should not be started immediately among the United Nations. He op-

Two Areas in City Are Reclassified

The Dixon city council last night passed an ordinance rezoning a block on Fifth street and the Walter Boos property at the corner of Third street and Highland avenue from a residential classification to commercial.

The commercial classification applies only to the south side of the Fifth street block, between Galena and Hennepin avenues, where it involves two lots.

Boos, in his petition to the council, revealed that he plans to restore at Third and Highland.

Link Heirens With Lipstick Murder of Ex-Wave by Prints

Tuohy Says 22 Points of Similarity Found; Go to FBI for Check

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—William Heirens, under investigation in the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and the so-called "lipstick murder" of Frances Brown, and awaiting court arraignment on 29 criminal charges, was under a 24-hour guard in the Cook county jail today.

After authorities yesterday announced new developments in their investigation of the 17 year old University of Chicago student, Warden Frank Sain removed Heirens from his cell in a regular tier block to a cell in the observation tier adjoining the county jail hospital. He ordered the youth be under observation 24 hours a day.

Earlier, State's Attorney William J. Tuohy and Chief of Detectives Walter Storms said that Heirens' fingerprints had been matched with one found in the north side apartment of Miss Frances Brown, 33 year old former Wave who was slain last Dec. 11. She had been stabbed and shot by a prowler who entered her sixth-floor apartment by way of a fire escape.

Findings Go to FBI

Tuohy said 22 points of similarity between the print in the Brown apartment and the print of Heirens' right forefinger were established by police fingerprint experts, who last month established the presence of Heirens' finger prints and a palm print on the Degnan $20,000 ransom note. The FBI has confirmed the findings in the Degnan case and Tuohy said the findings in the Brown slaying have been sent to the bureau for confirmation and identification.

Tuohy also said that photographs of a message written in lipstick on the wall of Miss Brown's apartment reading, "For heaven's sake catch me before I kill more I cannot control myself," have been turned over to a handwriting expert for comparison with samples of Heirens' handwriting.

Heirens Keeps Silence

The youth, upon the advice of his attorney, remained silent after reporters told him of Tuohy's statement about the Brown case.

Heirens is scheduled to be arraigned in Criminal court Tuesday on 24 burglary indictments, four charging assault, and one charging robbery and assault. Tuohy said the state will be ready to try the burglary cases and that he will ask consecutive sentences. None

Horse Show Opens This Evening; Two Exhibitions Sunday

The beautiful trophies to be presented to winners in the several classes of the second annual horse show sponsored by Dixon post No. 12, American Legion and Dixon Lodge, No. 779, B. F. O. Elks to be held at the high school athletic field this evening and Sunday afternoon and evening, were placed on display at the Eichler store on First street Friday. Dr. Z. W. Moss went to Chicago and brought the trophies to Dixon, and they are the finest that have ever been presented locally. The show will officially open tonight promptly at 7:30. Sunday afternoon the length of the program requires that the show start promptly at 1:30 and the final program will be presented Sunday evening beginning at 7:30.

One entry arrived from Chicago late yesterday represented an expenditure of more than $50,000 which includes both horses and equipment. This entry is transported in a specially constructed truck. Several of the other exhibitors from the Chicago area were bringing their entries to the show in special built vans.

Record Entry List

Entries from Dixon and vicinity were the largest of any previous show, indicating the rapidly increasing interest in fine horses in this locality as well as in the metropolitan areas. The Cavallette troop will arrive by truck early Sunday morning and will present their routine of mounted drills and maneuvers at both the Sun-

Navy's Enlistment Policy Is Changed

Charles J. Gerski, CWT, U. S. Navy recruiting representative announced here yesterday that youths of 17 can now enlist for "cruises," or until they become 21, and men 18 to 31 years of age may sign for either four or six years of naval service.

An exception to this provision is made for applicants who served with the navy during the war, Gerski revealed. They may enlist for two, three, four or six years.

Enlistments for naval service have been highly satisfactory, Gerski said, declaring that these changes in enlistment policies were made as a result of heavy response.

He listed two major attractions for prospective sailors: (1) Initial monthly pay of $75 for apprentice seaman; (2) The fact that many men apparently wish to enlist prior to Oct. 5, 1946, so they may take advantage of the college training program under the G. I. Bill of Rights. Enlistments after Oct. 5 will not come under the provisions of the bill.

Gerski will be at the postoffice each Friday from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. to answer any questions about enlistment in the navy.

Champaign's Religious Program Is Extended

Champaign, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Religious education, victor in a recent court test, will be extended to the third grade in Champaign public schools this fall.

The classes are not compulsory but pupils are released during regular school hours to attend them. Previously restricted to the fourth through ninth grades, the program was extended to the third grade by the school board at the request of the Champaign Council on Religious Education.

Pending before the Illinois Supreme court is an appeal by Mrs. Vashiti McCollum, wife of a University of Illinois professor, seeking to upset a Champaign county Circuit court decision that "no constitutional or statutory rights" were violated by the program.

Great Lakes at 10,000 Mark for Discharges

Great Lakes, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Almost 10,000 Navy officers and enlisted men were processed by separation centers here during the first week in July in line with the Navy's demobilization program calling for discharge of all Naval Reserve personnel by Sept. 1.

Officials at the Ninth Naval district headquarters said the separation centers released 8,473 enlisted men and 1,373 officers during the week of July 1-7.

The Marine corps separation center released 1,128 men and 86 officers during the same week.

War Investigating Committee's Reply to May is Drafted

Senator Probers Not to Accede to Congressman's Suggestion

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—The senate war investigating committee held open today an invitation to Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky.), to clear up his connections with a $78,000,000 munitions combine—but not on the congressman's terms.

Members made it clear they had no intention of acceding to May's suggestions that an attorney of his choice be allowed to call or cross examine witnesses or to use the committee's subpoena powers to get additional records.

As the committee assembled behind closed doors to take a second look at May's stipulations and to draft a reply, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) still talked of subpoenaing the Kentuckian should he decline to appear voluntarily.

The committee is looking into affairs of the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, Batavia Metal Products Company and firms associated with them in what chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) has called a "war profiteering paper empire."

May, chairman of the house military committee, got a formal invitation yesterday to tell what he knows about this "empire" in public sessions. He has denied profiting personally from his association with its promoters.

Evidence Against May

The Mead committee has received evidence that May was an "agent" for the Cumberland Lumber Company, that Cumberland was part of the combine, and that it received from the combine $48,000 for lumber that never was delivered.

The senate investigators also have obtained testimony from war department officials and Army

Double or Nothing His Wife's Policy

Pittsboro, Pa., July 13.—(AP)—Papa Arthur Griser, 38, gazed proudly at his fourth set of twins today, looked fondly upon his 31-year-old wife who now has borne 13 children, and said:

"With her it's double or nothing."

Mrs. Irma Griser had just returned from Braddock General hospital with twin boys, the first of identical sex in the family's multiple sets of children. Other Griser twins are Dolores and Johnny, 5; Dorothy and Robert, 3, and Mary Louise and David Paul, a year old last April 10. Twelve-year-old Agnes, Arthur, 10, Sarah, 8, Eddie, 6, and Harry, 4 complete the family.

Papa Griser is a twin himself, a discharged veteran of European service and a boiler house fireman for the Westinghouse Airbrake Co. He admits cheerfully that he sometimes has difficulty making ends meet for his large brood but all the children are plump and rosy-cheeked and there's always "lots of milk on the table."

Agnes, the eldest child, helps her mother and says she sometimes has her "hands full with the children," prompting her to wish ruefully sometimes that "I was the baby of the family."

Winnebago Grand Jury Asks Local Curfew's Revival

Rockford, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Enforcement of a long-standing city ordinance calling for a 9:30 p. m. curfew is recommended by a special Winnebago county grand jury which indicted eight persons under 21.

The jury, calling for "greater efforts" by law enforcement officers, said the curfew ordinance had been on the books for many years and prohibits persons under 16 from "loitering or playing on streets, alleys or public places after 9:30 p. m."

Four Not Charged

Of the 12 persons named in 15 true bills returned by the jury yesterday, eight were between 16 and 21 years of age. Four additional youths under 16 were not charged because of their age.

A 17-year-old boy, described by State's Attorney Max Weston as the leader of a juvenile gang, was named in nine of the bills, charged with larceny of a motor vehicle, robbery, burglary and larceny. Five companions were charged with burglary and larceny, several also being charged with larceny of a motor vehicle and one with forgery.

Have Given Statements

The six youths were apprehended after four boys robbed a tavern at Lake Delavan, Wis., and Weston said all have given written statements. He said four additional young persons under the minimum indictable age of 16 will be arraigned in Juvenile court.

The grand jury's report said: "It appears that more adequate enforcement of the curfew ordinance and greater efforts on the part of the sheriff and chief of police in questioning youths of Juvenile court age who are found on the streets in the night time and are not accompanied by parents would facilitate the prevention of crime and delinquency."

The curfew ordinance provides for prosecution of parents as well as juveniles in cases of violation.

Plasterers Pledge to Finish Vets' Housing

Springfield, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Springfield plasterers have promised first call on their services to veterans' homes or veterans' housing projects.

W. L. O'Brien, secretary of local No. 59, AFL Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers, said the local last night adopted a resolution pledging its journeymen plasterers to refuse other work insofar as necessary to assure prompt finishing of veterans' residential construction.

O'Brien added, however, that members would continue work with reduced crews on commercial construction already underway and would not turn down hospital and other similar "essential" jobs.

Polio Hits 6 Members of a Freeport Family

Freeport, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Six children of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Meyers, ranging in age from one to 10, were in Deaconess hospital today suffering from what Health Commissioner H. J. Stickle called mild cases of infantile paralysis.

Altogether, 22 poliomyelitis cases have been treated at the hospital since June 21. Dr. Stickle said, and he described all the cases as mild. Last year 68 polio cases were reported in Freeport between Aug. 20 and late October. Eight of the patients died and seven are still hospitalized.

OPA Bill, Denuded of Major Controls, Is Voted by Senate

Final Passage Came at Early Hour This Morning; Now Goes to House

Washington, July 13.—(AP)—The senate passed, 62 to 15, early today an OPA revival bill that had been denuded of almost as many major price controls as it promised to restore.

Final passage came at 1:56 a. m. (CDT) on the thirteenth day of OPA's lapse in a legal coma.

Apparently amended far beyond the bounds which would permit its acceptance by President Truman, the one-year extension measure was sent to the house where it seemed likely to receive a quick push toward a senate-house conference committee. There, administration leaders hope to rewrite it from tip to roots.

Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, top Republican of the banking committee, said an effort might be made to substitute for it the original extension bill Truman vetoed June 29. Wolcott said the first bill appeared "stronger" than the latest senate measure.

As it floundered through a sleepy senate, the new measure would revive OPA and restore price control ceilings as of June 30. It would reinstate rent controls, with the proviso that states take over in this field where they have adequate laws.

Many Exemptions
Price controls, however, would not be replaced on meat, poultry, eggs, butter, cheese, milk or other dairy products, cotton seed, soybeans, grain, livestock or poultry feed, nor on any form of tobacco. Petroleum would have no ceilings as long as supply meets domestic demands.

Reinstated were some of the provisions to which Truman objected when he vetoed OPA extension bill No. 1 on June 29. These included a section giving

Women Plaintiffs In Two New Suits

Mary W. Case, Paw Paw, has charged that Thomas C. and Ira H. Douglass conspired maliciously to induce and compel her to buy property in Paw Paw so they could make large profits, knowing that she couldn't find other living accommodations, in a complaint filed yesterday in Lee county Circuit court.

Named as defendants in the case in addition to the above men are: Ralph, Fred, Mary, Ray P., Ruth, Hazel, Edgar, H., Ethel and Lucy Douglass, and Edith Tanner. Also named are unknown heirs of Nellie Tarr, Anna B. Douglass and John B. Douglass, all deceased.

The plaintiff seeks judgment against the defendants for the costs she has incurred in attempting to get an abstract of title to the property she purchased Dec. 12, 1945, for $900. She has charged the defendants with fraud and deceit which forced her to spend large sums of money to obtain an abstract.

Alleges Ejection Threat
The complaint sets forth that Ira Douglass told her Dec. 1, 1945, that all rights to title in the property, where she was living, had been signed over to him and John

Dixon Sailor Gives His Version of Big Bikini A-Bomb Test

Robert S. Moore, CM, Writes Blast Was Not As Big As Expected

The following is part of a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. John R. Moore, 1002 Galena avenue, from their son, Robert S. Moore, CM, aboard the U. S. S. George Clymer at Bikini where the Operations Crossroads atomic bomb tests are being conducted.

"I thought that you would be interested in our part in the little explosion out this way. You folks no doubt heard the reports of it over the radio at the time it happened so you have all of the major detail. I'll give you an idea of what our job was.

Picked Up Personnel
"We picked up the personnel of the Pennsylvania and the Nevada, a couple of days before, all except a few men that were needed till the last minute. Before daylight on the first of July we picked up the last minute personnel of a number of other ships and at about daybreak got underway out of the lagoon. We were assigned a station about 20 miles out. We were right near the ships that had the newsmen aboard.

"At about 9 o'clock all the men were called topside to see the blast. At the time of the blast we faced away from it and covered our eyes. I sort of cheated a little bit and saw the reflection of the blast off the deck. It was vivid orange and rather bright but not nearly as bright as we had expected. There wasn't much of a roar and we didn't feel any rush of air or waves. There was a low hanging cloud between us and the lagoon so we didn't see any cloud of smoke till it was some height in the air. How the newsmen saw the sights they told about is more than I know as they were the same place as we were. What we did see of the cloud was very pretty and awe-inspiring.

Get Radio Reports

"We spent the rest of the morning at the radio as we couldn't see anything of the damage done from that distance. At shortly after noon we joined the formation to re-enter the lagoon. About 4 o'clock were given the word that our anchorage was clear and we entered and dropped the hook. As far as I can see they have done an honest job of reporting the damage done. I did a good job of guessing what would happen although there wasn't as much debris on the water as I had expected. The next bomb is the one that I'm looking for to really do some damage. It should be ready to go in about three weeks by the latest date we can get."

Robert Moore has been in the navy for seven and a half years and has been stationed most of that time in the South Pacific.

Paris' First Duel in Eight Years--A Clash of Philosophies

Despite the continuing hardships of living, Parisians are finding time now to indulge more thoroughly in the cultural aspects of life—such as art, music, philosophy. One such discussion recently, concerning the merits of Jean-Paul Sartre's philosophy of existentialism, developed into harsh words between two Parisian painters, M. d'Esparbes and M. Rene Gaillard. The harsh words led to a slap, traditional challenge to a duel. Next morning the two men, with their sides, met in a small square in Montmartre.

The photos below tell the story from there. Each duelist drew blood, satisfying honor. Then, because duelling is illegal in France, the police came, stopped the affair and listed names of everyone involved. The artists parted friends.

En garde! M. d'Esparbes, left, and M. Gaillard begin on signal.

Blood drawn, honor satisfied.

Gendarmes! The action is over.

Fals again. And now, back to the argument.

Tower Tree

Greensburg, Ind. July 12 — (AP)—Greensburg still has a tower tree today for sightseers to view, although the famous saw-toothed aspen that had flourished on the courthouse tower for nearly fifty years was all but cut away yesterday. A 16-foot aspen sapling is growing on another corner of the tower.

Only the stump and a live off-shoot of the older tree was left after, steepie jacks and a tree surgeon operated. The tree failed to leaf this spring. Hundreds crowded the courthouse square and watched the proceedings.

Botanists say a bird dropped the first seed, which grew in accumulated dirt on the roof of the garden. Four saplings were growing on the tower at one time, but all did not live.

First Famine Relief Promises Fulfilled

Washington, July 13—(AP)—President Truman said Friday the nation, through the determined efforts of everyone, has made good on its first famine relief promises.

Reporting on the fiscal year which ended June 30, he said that in the case of food grains—the major relief commodity—exports exceeded the country's commitments.

The president cautioned, however, that continued cooperation will be necessary if the country is to do its full share to relieve the hunger he said still exists in the world.

Truman's statement was issued in connection with a report by Secretary of agriculture Anderson which said foreign food shipments during the past 12 months totaled more than 16,500,000 long tons—or about 16 1/2 per cent of the nation's supply.

Day By Day On the Air

(Central Daylight Saving Time)

New York, July 13—(AP)—Bikini atom bomb test No. 2, the explosion 13 feet below the surface of the lagoon, also is to be broadcast. Expected date is July 24. Arrangements similar to those for the June 30 trial are in preparation, to include all-network pool description, but probably not on such an elaborate basis.

This time the broadcasters are hoping for better transmission conditions than prevailed at the first blast. Then the poor signals reduced the overall effect considerably.

Experienced listeners thought much of the difficulty was due to atmospheric conditions generally encountered this time of the year in the tropics. However, there has been discussion in the trade press that a question of inter-service rivalry may have been involved with Navy relay equipment used in preference to other apparatus available from the Army, described as more adapted to voice transmission.

Summer scheduling for the week end, Tonight—NBC 7, Bernie West Carnival, "Stars of Tomorrow" variety program, replacement for "Life of Riley" eight weeks; NBC 7:30 "Honey Moon in New York," morning series, adding a sixth broadcast at night in "Truth or Consequences" time, also eight weeks.

PETTERS ARRESTED

Frankfurt, July 13 — (AP)—Ninety-six American soldiers were arrested by U. S. Third Army military police during the last six days for public petting with German frauleins, it was announced today.

The arrests were made following Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's crack-down on displays of affection. In Nuerberg military police arrested 71 soldiers in a four-day period between July 4 and 9. Many soldiers were ordered to pay $5 fines. Others were turned over to their commanding officers for disciplinary action.

Statewide System of Artificial Lakes Planned in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., July 13—(AP)—Blueprints of a statewide system of artificial lakes being mapped by the Illinois Conservation department is taking shape and Director Livingston E. Osborne says some construction probably will get underway this fall.

Under a $3,000,000 postwar program authorized by the 1945 general assembly, department engineers have completed surveys of more than 250 of nearly 400 proposed lake sites in 96 counties. The locations have been suggested by civic, farm and sportsmen's groups.

Approve 140 Sites

About 140 sites have been approved for further study. These later will be examined by state geologists, biologists and foresters, who probably will eliminate many from further consideration.

The next step will be calls for bids on locations finally accepted as satisfactory by all agencies concerned. This is expected beginning in September, Osborne said, with construction on some projects following soon after.

Osborne said he could make no estimate of the number of projects that can be finished with the $2,520,000 of the 1945 appropriation earmarked for land acquisition, detailed planning and construction.

This was due in part, he said, to uncertainties as to land and construction costs in the future.

Won't Condemn Land

"Furthermore, we have no idea at this time of what specific problems will confront us with final selection of sites, and what they'll mean in terms of expenditures," he added.

Osborne said his department will not condemn and obtain lands through court proceedings. One of the program's aims is rehabilitation of some of the state's 3,000,000 acres of wasteland.

The small lakes ranging in size from 40 to 200 acres, are planned primarily to restore the recreational standing of Illinois, "once the nation's greatest inland hunting and fishing state."

Their use will be mainly for fishing and other recreation, including swimming, boating, hunting and skating.

Osborne said in the use of $480,000 allocated for engineering and research the department hopes to perfect a statewide master plan for continuing development when additional appropriations are made available.

New Car Orders

Exceed 5,500,000;
Meet Goal by '48

Sales Managers Predict Prices Will Predict Volume of Demand

Detroit, July 13—(AP)—Orders on hand for new passenger automobiles now total something in excess of 5,500,000 units, according to authoritative estimates.

If the car industry follows the anticipated pattern, the production divison should catch up with accumulating demand by the end of 1947 or early 1948. Trade experts plotting production trends forecast that assembly plants will turn out about 4,000,000 passenger cars between now and next Dec. 31, and add about 4,000,000 more in 1947.

Give Realistic View

These figures represent the more realistic thinking of the industry's conservative executives. None of these leaders ever placed much faith in reports that the war had piled up a backlog of demand for more than 12,500,000 vehicles. The latter figure, these executives say, more truly represents probable demand over five to six years, taking into account annual normal replacement requirements.

Sales managers say that prices will be more of a factor than ever before in determining the volume of demand. Demand for cars from buyers to whom costs are secondary probably will be filled by early 1947. Most of the remainder of the estimated 5,500,000 buyers will require only a little urging to overcome their price objections.

Becomes Buyer's Market

From that point, however, automobile merchandising is expected to become a buyer's market. The potential purchaser will expect a lot of consideration with respect to trade-in allowance on his old car and he will have to be convinced that it is practical economically to replace his

CENTURY OLD GRAND DETOUR LANDMARK BEING MODERNIZED FOR NEW INDUSTRY

Stage coaches used this barn as a stable at Grand Detour over a hundred years ago. The interior of the building is being modernized for Mrs. Peter Prier's frozen pastry products. Built in 1839, this stable housed stage coaches and horses on many of the early runs down Rock River. The hotel in those early days was located directly across the street to the south. In later years the property was transferred to the grandfather of Amos Bosworth, who now resides on North Brinton avenue in Dixon.

In removing the floors and interior structure of this historic landmark, workmen discovered that most of the material had not been replaced since its original construction over a century ago. The floor planking and twelve-inch beams (to the left) were in most cases, hand hewn and in an unusually good state of preservation. At the time that this building was erected, John Deere had completed his first two plows and at the end of two years, 1840, the annual output of this early implement manufacturer had risen to forty plows.

The walls of the old stable were built of native rock nineteen inches in thickness. Local historians are of the opinion that the exterior of the structure has not changed with the exception of minor repairs, in the past one hundred years.

The ceiling of the first floor was built from unfinished slabs of oak logs, the grain of which can be seen in this photo. Undoubtedly the spikes were used for harness equipment and horseshoes during the days that it was used by stage coach operators.

Wednesday night's storm raised havoc in parts of Dixon as a reported .92 inches of rain fell within a short time accompanied with unusually sharp lightning and strong wind. Kenneth Bruce and Carlton Spielman are shown here looking at a large tree which was uprooted at the corner of Lincoln avenue and Sixth street.

Scores of families were forced out of their homes in the west end of Dixon Wednesday night as drainage failed to carry off a flash flood. Gardens, streets and yards were covered with water and, in many cases, considerable damage was done to homes and garages. The foundation on one side of the house in the above photo was swept away by the fast moving waters.

The cupola on the Eichler building, at the corner of First street and Galena avenue, was struck by lightning at 10:45 p. m. Wednesday. Slate shingles were strewn throughout the intersection area and the damage was estimated at $1,000.

Horse show enthusiasts will be treated this week-end to one of the most outstanding shows in the middle-west as the local Elks and American Legion stage their second annual horse show at the high school stadium on Saturday and Sunday. The Cavallettes of Davenport, Iowa, will appear on Sunday afternoon.

Small grain in the Palmyra Township area was hit particularly hard by the rains and winds during the past week. A grain field directly south of the township hall is shown here and it will be noted that the grain in the background is beaten down. It was necessary for the farmer to cut the oats with a mower instead of harvesting with a combine.

A heavy growth of thistle weeds can be noted from U. S. Highway Alt. No. 30, about two miles west of Dixon on the south side of the pavement. Farmers throughout the mid-west have been making an earnest attempt in recent years to pass legislation with regulations for thistle weed control. A close-up of this agricultural pest can be seen to the right.

Twenty years ago picnickers at Lowell Park were availing themselves of boat rides on the lake. This group, at a Presbyterian picnic, included Paul Glenn, George Ogle, Nellie Griffin, Mrs. Emma Weishaar, Mrs. Kate Hunter, Iona Ogle, Mrs. M. Glenn, Mrs. Emma McCabe, Mrs. Emma Ogle, all from Ashton and Stanwood Train from Dixon. The photo was furnished by Mrs. Maybelle Porter of Round Lake.

Questions and Accusations

How can America's good intentions of atomic disarmament be believed when we carry on the bomb tests at Bikini. Why is the United States aiming at the perfection rather than the restriction
of the atomic bomb.

A writer in the Russian publication Pravda asks these questions.
And a Moscow radio commentator, in an accusing rather than a questioning mood, calls our exclusive possession of the methods
of atomic bomb manufacture "vulgar common blackmail." He also calls attention to the fact that the house military affairs committee
has proposed legislation "preserving the atom bomb as a weapon of the United States Army and Navy."

If the Russian writer and broadcaster were telling the whole story, then their questions might be reasonable and their objections
valid. In some respects the Bikini tests are a contradiction of our proposals to outlaw atomic warfare. And certainly the militaristic aspects of the house committee's bill (which disregard objections by the president and the war and navy secretaries) don't square with our professed policies.

But the Russian writer and broadcaster didn't tell the whole story, of course. If they had, they could have found answers and explanations all about them.

They might have looked in the Russian press on the day before the Pravda article and the broadcast in question. There they could have read stories urging "iron discipline" and increased production to enhance the power and efficiency of the Soviet armed forces.

They might have looked at the size of the peacetime Red Army,
and our Army. They might have checked on recent speeches by Prime Minister Stalin and other leaders in which military might
was stressed as the goal in coming years for protection against
"fascism" and "capitalistic encirclement."

They might have tried to imagine how the censorship and secrecy
that prevail from the Balkans to the Pacific, the divisive and destructive efforts of American Communists, the several Russian vetoes in the Security Council, and other manifestations of dubious
Russian good will must appear
through American eyes.

If they had done all this, they might have found their answers.
But it would have been necessary
for two highly indoctrinated and regimented Russian minds to be

Henry C. Lytton Passes His 100th Birthday Today

Chicago, July 13.—(AP)—Henry
C. Lytton passed his 100th birthday today and the pioneer Chicago
merchant—still active as president of the clothing store that bears his name—foresees "continued welfare and progress" for the nation "in the centuries to come."

The last survivor of the pioneer
Chicago merchants who helped develop the State street shopping thoroughfare, one of the world's most famous, Lytton observed
his centenary with a party for friends at his St. Joseph, Mich., summer home.

Has Seen 4 Wars
In a birthday statement, released in Chicago, Lytton declared:

"I have lived through four wars,
five major depressions, many calamities, personal and national.
After each of these there were voices raised in anguish. And yet each time I have witnessed the pendulum of public spirit swing
slowly from despair to hope."

"I am convinced there is one particularly important reason for this continued national progress,"
he said, "despite all the setbacks
of history. The world has sent us
its most daring, its most aggressive
and its most imaginative."

Founded Store in 1887
Lytton founded his Chicago
store, Henry C. Lytton & Co., formerly known as "The Hub" in 1887. He gives advertising a large measure of credit for his success
in building the store which did a $19,000,000 business last year.

"Modern advertising, more important than ever these days," he says, "is purely good salesmanship in print."

When in Chicago, he is at his office every business day. He is a familiar sight on the sales floor,
talking to clerks, watching the
customers and checking stocks.
He dictates letters and presides at board meetings and business conferences.

for the moment more American
than Russian, which is an impossible feat. Even in this country,
with its great latitude of thought and expression, few are able to view Russian tactics, policies and political ideals objectively and sympathetically.

But at least these two Russians,
and some of their more enlightened fellow countrymen, must occasionally admit that the Soviet Union doesn't have a corner on virtue or suspicion. The Russian government speaks of both a great deal. But it must be clear even in Moscow that some inconsistencies of American policy arise from a confused doubt over what tack
the Kremlin is going to take next.

Mutual suspicion has ruled Russo-American relations almost since the day the war ended. From that can be traced most of these questions—some sincere, others obviously rhetorical—which are so often expressed in both countries.
And until these two powers can agree to cast out suspicion and achieve a peaceful understanding of mutual disagreement but mutual trust, the questions will continue and increase.

HEAVY SHIP

Latest calculations of scientists show that a rocket ship, to

Fair Enough

By
Westbrook Fagler

(Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
New York.—The career of Murray Garsson, the promoter who seems to have imposed upon the sturdy but highly-credulous honesty of Andrew Jackson May, of Kentucky, presents a delightful study, as well pursued in court records and in the reminiscences of policeman in New York as in the meager records revealed in Washington. May, a backwoods congressman and chairman of the military affairs committee of the house of representatives, knew Murray Garsson for years but knew nothing questionable about him.

The outline of Garsson's bankruptcies, his association with eminent New York gangsters of the prohibition era and his arrests,
and data on his brother, Henry,
have been entered in the Congressional Record.

May would seem to have been no more careless, however, than others in times past or the Army officers who dealt with the Gar-sson corporations. The FBI had the records of both and Gov. Tom Dewey, of New York, Ed. Mul-rooney, the retired police commissioner and a number of others
here had picked up their trail,
particularly Murray's now and again for years.

Dewey remembered Murray as a
figure in a bribery case in the federal court when Garsson was a special assistant to William Doak,
who was secretary of labor under Herbert Hoover.

The most interesting detail disclosed in a day's search here was a loan of $130,000 worth of stock
of the Twentieth Century Fox Corporation to Murray Garsson by Joseph Schenck.

Willie Bloff, the old brothel
keeper who had found his social level among the aristocracy of Hollywood, testified on his trial for extortion that Joe had loaned Garsson $200,000. A later witness,
Joe Moscovitz, Schenck's bookkeeper, went into more detail. He said Schenck loaned $202,837.50 to himself and Garsson which was paid for the stocks and that 5,000 shares, worth then approximately $130,000, was Garsson's share of the loan. Garsson endorsed the stock in blank to Schenck. Had it gone up, Garsson, apparently,
would have had a profit. This point was not developed. It was later sold for $120,000. Moscovitz said
Garsson got none of the proceeds.
Nor, said he, did Schenck take a tax loss.

Moscovitz said Garsson was a close friend of Schenck.

This loan was made in Nov.
1937. At that time, Garsson was winding up a career of three years
as an investigator for the house committee investigating corporate reorganizations and bond-holding companies with the ostensible purpose of protecting investors from fraud. There had been many reorganizations and receiverships in the motion picture industry in which the Fox interests were involved, and Garsson's official duties as investigator took him to Hollywood. He was in a position to make recommendations to the committee, known as the Sabath

committee, in honor of its chairman, the Hon. Ad. Sabath of Chicago. He could favor the companies, including Schenck's or he could, if, for any reason, he felt prejudiced against the magnates of Hollywood, turn thumbs down. The nature of his recommendations I do not yet know. But I do know that Moscovitz testified that Murray
Garsson got a loan of $130,000
from a man whose interests he was in a position to serve or to harm.

That such a man, with such a record as Garsson's, could get
such a job, with its implications
of great trust and honor, hardly vindicates May's gullibility. Sa-bath, however, was equally naive.
if so mild a word is appropriate.
Herbert Hoover said he was surprised to read in the accounts of the Washington investigation
of war profiteering by Garsson's
companies, under May's patronage, that Garsson had held a job
as special assistant to the Secretary of Labor, William Doak, in his administration.

In this job, Garsson was placed in a position to control the cases of many immigrants, including prominent and high-salaried foreign actors in Hollywood and wealthy sojourners in the east.
A racket had developed in immigration which then was administered by the department of labor and Doak, on Sept. 12, 1931,
went on the air over the Columbia
system, to say: "I have appointed as special assistant the Hon.
Murray W. Garsson of New York to supervise and assist the agent
we had investigating this racket-teering."

About two months later, the Hon. Murray W. Garsson took the stand as a character witness for a relative of Doak who had been indicted on a charge of fraud
in the practice of this racket.
Apparently, the F. B. I. had given the prosecuting attorney, William Herlands, no report on the Hon. Murray W. Garsson's own character, so he was not even challenged as a sponsor of the defendant and the jury disagreed.

In the labor department job,
Garsson had charge of a group
of investigators who were supposed to round up aliens who had jumped ship or otherwise entered the United States illegally, persons who had made false statements in their naturalization papers and visitors who had overstayed their permits. Graft had developed and Garsson was selected as a man above temptation to deal with individuals who were willing to pay a great price to stay here. In Hollywood, where he spent much time, there were alien actors who could afford to pay heavily for the privilege of remaining and moving picture
companies with enormous interests at stake on the recommendations of the special assistant.

Hoover said Garsson held a minor position and that he had never heard of him until a few days ago when the Mead commit-

In August, 1928, the Rotun-
dine corporation, owned by Arnold
Rothstein the most notorious
New York criminal of the probi-tation era, sued Murray Garsson
and others to foreclose a mortgage on a downtown office building.
Garsson and his associates had borrowed $40,000 and Rothstein recovered. Rothstein was murdered on Nov. 6, 1928.

The F. B. I. report suggests that in 1932, when he was Doak's
assistant, Garsson was concerned
in an effort to stop deportation
proceedings against Owney Madden, a paroled murderer, and that he also was associated with Dutch Schultz, the departed gangster.

If the F. B. I. could turn up so

Garsson here presented, the army

Observations

By
DeWITT MacKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst

Come the 29th of this month and twenty-one allied nations will assemble in the old Luxembourg Palace in Paris to lay down peace
terms for the axis countries of Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland—that is, the conference will assemble unless it is blocked by some great power
with a penchant for throwing monkey wrenches into the machinery.

Employment of the term "peace treaty" of course connotes that war with arms is finished, and the corollary to this is that tranquility once more has settled over the land. The present situation, however, strikes me as providing an exception to the general rule.

It's true that the sound of guns
and bursting bombs is still—and isn't likely to be heard again in a major way for a long time. But just as surely as the sun will rise tomorrow the world is facing an unprecedented period of political tempest which neither you nor I will live to see completed. Europe is the center of the upheaval now
—but it will spread.

The fixing of peace terms for Italy and the other four states
naturally will be a step forward. It will help steady the morale of the defeated peoples and give them
hope at a moment when it is badly needed. Beyond that, however,
the treaties aren't likely to alter
the present situation vastly.

That is to say, we are going to see a continuation of Russia's drive to extend her zone of influence, with England fighting to salvage what she can from the dominant position which she held before the world turned things topsy-turvy. That will be a battle to a finish—police-economic rather than military—but non-the-less deadly.

Moscow has tacitly designated the Stettin-Adriatic line through central Europe as the western frontier of her zone of iron-clad dominance. Within that sphere lie not only the treaty nations
of Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria
and Finland but also big Yugoslavia, Albania, Poland and Czecholovakia. The signing of treaties cannot alter this status for the four defeated axis satellites and it will be surprising, as I see it, if before long we don't see one or more of the countries in this zone
of influence make application for membership in the Union of Soviet Republics.

But it's wholly clear from Russia's tactics and general strategy
that she has no intention of resting on her laurels when she has consolidated the vast territory
which she already has brought under her control. The "world revolution" for the spread of Communism—of which we heard so much back in the early twenties—
is again under way and will grow.

G. "Ned" Maxwell believes that a printer's mistake on his campaign card was a major factor in his victory in the race for the Republican nomination for sheriff.

The printer had misspelled a word and every time Maxwell
handed out a card he said,
"There's a mistake on this card. Can you find it?"

As a result, Maxwell said,
his cards were read more thoroughly than those of other candidates.

So we see Moscow maneuvering
for control of Austria, and making mighty efforts to establish Communism in such strategic countries
as Germany, Italy and France, not to mention activities in the Orient.
Naturally Russia's main efforts at the moment are centered in Europe, but she has made it clear that she regards the world as her oyster—both eastern and western hemispheres—and so the battle of isms will rage with increasing intensity on a global basis.

As concerns the pending treaties, I believe we shall find that any differences of opinion between Russia and the western allies will pivot on points relating to the realignment of power in Europe.
Italy is likely to furnish the main arguments, for the other four already are in the Russian sack.

BESS HAMILTON was waiting on the beach and walked with them to the cabin.

"It's after 5, Sally," she told her when they were alone. "We ought to catch the 6 o'clock bus
if we're to get back to Linton in time to change and go on duty at 7. The buses are crowded at this time of day and we may not even be able to get on. I hope that supper is about ready or I'm afraid we'll have to go hungry."

"I'll dress in a jiffy, Bess, and help Carolyn with it," Sally promised. She patted the older nurse on her plump back. "Don't you worry, darling. We'll get back.
Wow! Is my nose red? I bet it peels like an onion. I should have oiled it before I went out."

When Sally returned to the others the table in the little pine grove near the cabin was set for a buffet supper—steak and eggs,
grill hamburgers sizzled and coffee
sent up tantalizing odors. Once again Carolyn and her mother
drew Bess Hamilton into their circle and Doctor Hallock found a seat close to Sally.

"You're on the Terry case, aren't you, Sally?" he asked as he poured steaming coffee into her cup.
"Pretty tough, isn't she?"
"Oh, no," Sally told him, conscious of the subtle maneuvering
on the part of her hostess but determined to ignore it. The lake was changing momentarily. Long shadows were creeping out from the shore. White cotton clouds dotted the intense blue of the afternoon sky and were reflected in the quiet water beneath. Mei-lored and softened by distance

came the sound of singing. She wished she could just sit here
silently and look and listen and dream. She roused with an effort.
"She'll be all right after she's thoroughly rested and eaten quantities of nourishing food. That girl was exhausted and starved,
Jim—strange as that may sound.
You know the type, Doctor.
Spoiled."

"I like 'Jim' better, Sally," he told her with apparent irrelevance.

SALLY was eating the juicy
hamburger with relish. "My,
this is good! I don't know when I've eaten anything I like better.
Did you cook them?"

"Of course," he told her proudly.
"I made the coffee, too. When Carolyn asked me to come out for a swim and supper I accepted on one condition that we have hamburgers—that I should cook, and coffee that I be allowed to make.
I'm something of an artist when it comes to camp cooking."

"Then you—then Bess and I
barged in," Sally said. "But why didn't you tell us? Carolyn didn't invite us—"

"She probably knew you wouldn't come if you knew I was invited, Sally Maynard," the young man pointed out. "As it was, I played in luck for once.
This was all merely coincidental
—no breaking of hospital rules so your very active conscience need cause you no least quins."

"I never even thought about it," Sally said promptly. "But when plans are made for one guest and two extra ones are thrust upon
the hostess it isn't always convenient or—pleasant."
"You just hint that to your hostess, young lady, and see what happens to you," he warned.

"You know your standing with the Bacons—I don't have to remind you of that. They both adore you and sometimes I think you don't appreciate it."

"Oh, I do too," Sally declared,
when Bess Hamilton's voice

Nature Source of Inspiration of Home Decorative Arts

Nature always has been the major source of inspiration of home decorative arts.

For centuries patterns in floor coverings, tapestries, draperies, upholsteries, china and wall papers—to say nothing of pictures—have reproduced, both freely and conventionalized, the flowers, vines, fruits and other objects found in nature. And the blue or the sky, the verdure of the earth, the red glow of the sunset are added to embellish the decorative forms.

One of the oldest decorative bits borrowed from Nature is the Greek acanthus leaf. This still is seen widely in architectural design and furniture decoration.

Outstanding in the effective use of natural forms in the decorative arts are the hand-woven Persian, or oriental rugs. In them roses, lilies and other familiar flowers are found in great profusion—in fact, some orientals are called "garden rugs" because the flowers are arranged in gardens. These are said to have been first made for Chosroe I, king of Persia in the sixth century. Some old Persian garden rugs are worth tens of thousands of dollars.

Since in oriental rug design the source of inspiration—Nature—is limited neither by time nor space these hand-woven floor coverings from the Orient make an excellent decorative foundation for rooms furnished either in period or modern style. Their easy, free-flowing designs in soft warm colors are found by homemakers especially suitable for offsetting the feeling of claustrophobia that frequently arises in modern standardized homes furnished with precision-built materials.

LEE CENTER CLUB

The Lee Center 4-H Cooking Club held its fifth meeting July 10 at 2 p.m. at Mrs. Cole's home.

After the usual business the girls discussed the ice cream social which is going to be held July 26. Demonstrations were given by Merle Aschenbrenner and Charlotte Pierce on "Vegetable Salad for Outdoor Meals." Patricia Foote gave a demonstration entitled "Ways to Fix Eggs for an Outdoor Meal."

After a social hour refreshments were served by Charlotte Pierce, Patricia Foote and Merle Aschenbrenner. The next meeting will be held on July 18 at the Lee Center high school at 2 p.m.

MICHIGAN WEDDING

Mary Ruth Gardiner, formerly of White Hall, Ill., and Donald L. Crews were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June 29, at 3 o'clock at the Central Methodist church, Detroit, Mich.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Henry Hitt Crane.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson, Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Crews have purchased a home in Birmingham, Mich., and will be at home to friends after August 1.

Hollywood

Hollywood, July 13 — (AP) — Don't count Peggy Cummins out of "Forever Amber" yet.

The pixie-like little blonde starred in the bedroom drama until it was suspended. Defying superstition, she took the "F. A." script out of its folder and replaced it with "The Late George Apley." But the substitution is only temporary.

"The picture will be started again in September," she said, "and as far as I know, I am going to play Amber." This despite the fact that Gene Tierney, Vivien Leigh, Susan Hayward, Lana Turner and others have been rumored for the role.

The actress was far from shy or sad about the disrupted film. She was bubbling over with enthusiasm for her new role and described her difficulties with a Bavarian accent. It seems her English and Irish keep creeping in.

Peggy is certainly the popular favorite on her home lot. Although she has been there only a short while, she seemed to know everyone from the company cots to top producers. As we crossed a studio street, George Jessel leaned out of a passing car and shouted "Hiya, Honey!"

Yes, Peggy's career is far from a standstill.

Director George Marshall stuck his neck 'way out this week, far enough to risk getting it axed. He invited a group of mystery writers like Earle Stanley Gardner, Raymond Chandler, Craig Rice and Leslie Charteris to see his latest picture, "The Blue Dahlia."

During the showing it was so quiet you could hear a corpse drop. Strangely enough, the only one to guess whodunit before the last reel was Thad Brown, Los Angeles deputy chief of police.

BY BOB THOMAS
Hollywood, July 13 — (AP) — For years movie minds have clung to the theory that the public should not know it is being tricked on the film screen. Actor Lee Bowman is the latest to support this contention.

I found Bowman dubbing a song on the "Smash-Up" set. Even though he was a crooner in his native Cincinnati, he was mouthing the words while somebody else's words were recorded on the sound track. I asked if he didn't object to having people know his movie singing voice isn't his own. "I don't mind myself" he said.

Traps Reconditioned—

About 20 trap shooting enthusiasts have renewed limited activities at the traps at the Dixon Municipal Airport which have been reconditioned and repaired by Bill Fischer. Scarcity of ammunition is responsible for the limited activities but it is planned to hold several matches during the remainder of the season. In the recent meet, Fischer led all of the marksmen when he broke 45 out of a possible 50 clay birds. Thomas of M. Morris was second with a score of 38 out of 50 and Baude of Rock Falls was third with 18 out of 25. The next meeting is scheduled to be held Sunday, July 21st.

U. J. A. Goal in Sight—

Barney Wiennan, chairman of the Dixon United Jewish Appeal campaign said today that he believes the 1946 quota of $3500 for Dixon will be reached. In behalf of the local committee he thanked the many Dixon people who have so generously contributed to this humanitarian effort to aid the destitute survivors of Nazi tyranny. Wiennan will welcome any additional contributions during the final two weeks of the campaign with the hope that these will help the Dixon campaign go over the top.

Rumor of Attacks on Tito Called Impossible

Belgrade, July 13—(AP)—The Yugoslav ministry of information officially denied today reports that Marshal Tito had been wounded or an attempt made on his life.

"Marshal Tito, in excellent health, is touring Montenegro and making speeches of greeting in numerous villages," a ministry spokesman said.

"The report is impossible. Accounts of Marshal Tito's speeches which he made yesterday appeared in this morning's paper; and today, on the occasion of the Montenegrin state holiday, he is making additional speeches."

Tito left Belgrade on his speech making tour last Sunday.

'Wing' Gets Data for Atlantic Hop

This "flying wing" glider, pictured during test flight in England, has for three years helped gather technical data for the construction of a huge, jet-propelled flying wing plane that is expected to make the London-to-New York hop in seven or eight hours. Windmills (arrow) below wings drive small motors which reduce air turbulence. Glider has wing span of 54 feet, and weighs 6000 pounds.

Women Plan Program To Raise Their Status

Cleveland, July 13—(AP)—A four-fold program to raise the status of women in the world was started today by the National Federation of business and Professional Women's clubs.

In a speech following her election to the presidency of the group at the close of its convention yesterday, Miss Sally Butler of Indianapolis declared:

"We shall not rest until trained, equipped women representing more than half the population of our country are elected in large numbers to both the senate and house and to leading posts in state, county and local government units."

She listed the organization's goals for the next two years as:

"Enactment of the equal rights amendment; opposition to discrimination against women; jury service for women; and endorsement of qualified women for elective and appointive offices."

The group selected Fort Worth for its biennial convention in 1948 at close Reno, Nev., for the board of directors meeting next year.

English Vicar Dodges Trans-Ocean Nuptials

Salisbury, England, July 13—(AP)—An English vicar refused today to conduct a trans-Atlantic telephone marriage of an English girl and an American ex-serviceman because, he said, the ceremony "was not legal in England."

The Rev. F. W. White, the vicar, withdrew his services and use of the vicarage from 17-year-old Maureen Chamberlain, who said she was to have married James Grider of Hot Springs, N. M., Monday afternoon.

Now, Miss Chamberlain said, the marriage may have to be conducted by an American judge on the other end of the line.

Salem Unable to Care For Bryan's Birthplace

Salem, Ill., July 13—(AP)—The city of Salem admitted today that it was unable to finance renovation of the 93-year-old birthplace of William Jennings Bryan.

The disclosure and a public appeal for funds to recondition the municipal museum were made after a Maltoon resident wrote to Salem's mayor, criticizing the "run down" condition of the "great commoner's" birthplace. It was estimated $1,000 was needed for the reconditioning.

B. Douglass and that it would be sold. She further contends that she was informed that if she did not purchase the property immediately she would be forced to move when it was sold.

The complaint contends that Thomas C. Douglass told her Jan. 8, 1946, that he had bought the deed to the property, after she had made an initial payment of $100, that the remaining $800 payment should be made to him. After completing the payments, she said she received a deed to the property.

After repeated requests for an abstract of title to the property, she contends she was told Jan. 22, 1946, that none existed.

Sues Insurance Company

Mrs. Lorraine Turaska, also of Paw Paw, has asked for a judgment of $550 against the Union Life Insurance company, Chicago, in a suit filed in Lee county Circuit court in which she charges the insurance company has refused to make payment on a policy it issued to her husband, Willis E. Turaska.

Turaska was killed Feb. 26, 1946, when the car in which he was riding hit a truck on route 51 north of LaSalle.

Mrs. Turaska, in the complaint, alleges that the company, in the policy issued to Turaska July 12, 1944, promised to pay $500 in the event of his accidental death, plus an annual increase of 10 per cent per annum on the face value of the policy for five successive years. She declares that premiums were paid promptly and regularly.

The complaint declares that notice of Turaska's death was given the company on or before March 11, 1946, and that the proper proof of death was given March 19, 1946.

Atomic Commission

posed unsuccessfully the formation of 12-nation committees to carry on under the commission.

4—Evatt, according to a witness who asked not to be identified, accused Gromyko of obstructing progress on his report by "talking too much" and Gromyko retorted: "Not half as much as you."

Russia Outvoted Twice

In a preliminary to that point of debate Gromyko took offense when Evatt omitted mention of Russia among the nations which had been helpful in the work of the atomic sub-committee whose efforts were under discussion.

Gromyko was outvoted twice on motions to establish 12-nation committees. Poland supported him on one motion and abstained on the other.

Gromyko voted affirmatively, however, on a motion for a third committee, which would be concerned with exchange of scientific data on the atom but would not divulge the secrets as quickly as the Russians would like. Baruch said secret information would not even be discussed at this stage of the deliberations.

It was Baruch who made the broadest hint that the atomic conferees might seek new means of overcoming Russia's opposition to yielding the veto and that the U. N. might be shaken up to conform with the developments of the atomic age.

Charter Insufficient

Baruch reiterated that he was concerned with the veto power only as it affects atomic energy, and added:

"I digress here to remind all of us that when the United Nations was founded the atomic bomb was unknown. Therefore, it is apparent that the processes set up in the charter did not—could not—deal with this pregnant subject."

"It is obvious that an offender should be debarred from sitting in judgment in his own guilt."

Evatt said flatly that the United States "alone possesses atomic weapons" an added that a "mere convention" providing atomic disarmament as proposed by Russia would apply in fact only against the United States.

Evatt strongly supported the United States demand that the veto must be yielded on atomic subjects.

For Multilateral Treaty

"I am convinced," Evatt said, "that in the end the solution of our task will be in the preparation, for submission first to the Security council and eventually to the United Nations, of a multilateral treaty embodying four vital subjects:

"1—An overall plan for international control of atomic energy and its development for peaceful purposes.

"2—The charter of an international atomic energy agency with wide powers to administer the plan and put it into effect.

"3—Obligations by member states not to use atomic energy for purposes of destruction.

"4—Terms and conditions under which the several parts of the plan shall become operative in just and equitable sequence."

All 12 nations in the atomic energy commission will be represented in the three committees set up to handle (1) overall problems, (2) legal questions including the veto and (3) scientific and technical information which would be exchanged among the U. N. when all the controls are set.

would begin in 1951.

In exchange, the British agree: 1. Within one year to wipe out the entire dollar pool set-up in wartime to give Britain absolute control over dollars flowing into the Middle East, India, and other empire regions where currency is based on the pound sterling. American businessmen have been critical of this dollar pool as preventing them from doing business freely in India and the Middle East.

2. Great Britain will begin negotiations with empire countries, particularly India and the Middle East, for a reduction in the $14,000,000,000 debt which Britain owes there.

3. Britain agrees further to support American proposals for removal or reduction of barriers to international trade. Britain says that without the loan it cannot promote world trade outside the empire and would in effect be forced into economic isolationism.

OPA Bill, Denied

final say on the lifting of food controls to the secretary of agriculture instead of OPA, which Truman said was an "unsound split of authority." It contained also what he called "cost plus" amendments for automobile and appliance dealers and lacked an additional $250,000,000 in subsidies he asked.

In one major respect, however, it was more satisfactory to administration leaders than bill No. 1. The senate put in a provision requiring that producers, manufacturers and processors' ceilings be placed high enough to take care of the average increase in costs in their industry since 1940.

This was substituted for a provision inserted in the original bill by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) which Truman had labeled as the "most damaging" section of that measure.

New Bill Predicted

The apparent administration strategy was to take this measure direct to a senate-house committee without further action by the house itself now. There it would be matched with a 20-day extension of OPA powers voted by the house previously and joined together under rules that would permit almost any sort of final compromise.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), predicted that an entirely new bill would be evolved in the process.

The senate named senators Wagner (D-N.Y.), Barkley (D-Ky.), Downey (D-Calif.), Radcliffe (D-Md.), Tobey (R-N.H.), Taft (R-O.), and Millikin (R-Colo.) as its conferees.

Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.), who had threatened previously to delay passage of the bill with parliamentary maneuvers, said in a 40 minute speech starting at 1:10 a.m., that he hoped the bill would come back to the senate from the conference committee in the same form that it went there so that "President Truman will veto it."

O'Daniel In Slapping Mood

In the last long speech before the final vote, O'Daniel slapped at OPA, the new deal, the senate, and his desk.

He said it was stupid and ridiculous to try to revise the ghost of OPA. He said the new deal was guilty of squandering and corruption, that the administration was "walking hand in hand with all the crooks in the country."

He said senators only were interested in getting votes.

It was obvious that Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), hoped to strike out in conference all of the exemptions voted for specific products, thus bringing back under controls the major food and other items on which the senate said no ceilings should be placed.

If he succeeds in doing this and the house and senate accept the compromise version, Barkley and others appeared to believe that Truman would find it satisfactory.

At the end of nearly a week's debate on the measure, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), sought unsuccessfully to bring OPA back to life as it expired before June 30—with the addition of an independent control board. He asked its continuance to February 1, but lost 52 to 22.

The Florida senator told his colleagues that exemptions they had voted for food items would cost consumers $4,700,000,000 a year in grocery bills alone.

The OPA revival bill passed early today by the senate stacks up this way against the extension legislation President Truman vetoed June 29:

New Bill's Provisions

1. Provisions in the new bill, not contained in the old, would:

Exempt from price controls livestock, meat, poultry, eggs, milk, butter a noddary products; cotton seed, soybeans and their products; grain and livestock or poultry feed made from it; tobacco and its products.

Free petroleum and its products from control except when a de-control board found the supply short of domestic demand.

Bar federal rent ceilings in states having rent controls.

Forbid OUA to enforce price differentials between textile firms which handle cotton from raw to finished product and those which do not.

Forbid the Commodity Credit Corporation to pay more than 3.675 cents a pound for imported sugar.

Give southern pine used for pulp as high a ceiling as any other pine used for that purpose.

Allow at least current production costs on 90 per cent of logs, lumber and lumber products.

Make the new measure effective as of last June 30, the date the old OPA act expired.

Identical Provisions

2. Identical provisions in both old and new bills would:

Continue OPA until next June 30.

Transfer price controls over farm commodities to the secretary of agriculture.

Establish an independent, three-man decontrol board which could approve higher price ceilings than either the price administration or secretary of agriculture recommended.

Grant an additional $1,000,000,000 for food subsidies; ban any food subsidies after next April 1.

Guarantee automobile and appliance dealers full pre-war margins and discounts until sales return to the 1939-41 average.

Kill OPA's maximum average price regulation, intended to assure a supply of low-priced clothing.

Major Differences

3. On two major points, a pricing formula for manufacturers and discounts and markups for wholesalers and retailers, the new and old bills differed this way:

The new bill's pricing formula for manufacturers, producers, processors, service and transportation industries says prices must be high enough to return on the average the 1940 price plus any cost increases since then. But OPA could make "reasonable adjustments" to meet abnormal production. And in cases where ceilings were high enough to cover costs, it could refuse to raise them if this (a) would not boost production or (2) would reduce production of other necessary items.

The old bill's formula said ceilings would have to assure individual producers, processors and manufacturers (excluding service and transportation industries), price levels equal to those of the first half of October, 1941, plus any subsequent weighted average increase in unit costs throughout the industry.

The new bill's discounts and markups for wholesalers and retailers would be those in effect June 29, 1946.

The old bill set the date at Jan. 1, 1946.

Kickback

Chicago—(AP)—For the last 20 years Leo Zientek, an evasive balliff, has been carrying out court orders to move people out on the street.

Last March Zientek's landlord notified him he would have to move from his apartment so his daughter could have a home when her husband returned from service.

Now Zientek is faced with the problem of kicking himself out of his own apartment following issuance of a court order for his eviction.

In one major respect, however, it was more satisfactory to administration leaders than bill No. 1. The senate put in a provision requiring that producers, manufacturers and processors' ceilings be placed high enough to take care of the average increase in costs in their industry since 1940.

This was substituted for a provision inserted in the original bill by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) which Truman had labeled as the "most damaging" section of that measure.

War Investigating

officers that May intervened on behalf of Batavia and Erie to help them get contracts, advance payments, labor, equipment and contract terminations.

They have received evidence, too, that an "overpayment" of more than $1,000,000 which the government has been unable to get back, was made on one contract.

Some of this evidence came in after May appeared before the committee June 4 in a private session. Mead wrote the congressman yesterday about "testimony and the documentary evidence" in which "frequent references have been made to your intercession" and invited him to testify at his convenience.

No Decision on Invitation

Mead said it should be "abundantly clear that the statement made by you to the committee in executive session x x x did not furnish the full, complete and accurate facts which the committee should know in connection with its investigation."

May neither accepted nor turned down the invitation. He said he would be "only too glad to consider" it most seriously. But he asked Mead to indicate whether he would have the right to have his counsel recall witnesses for cross examination, put new witnesses on the stand and obtain war department records.

He said he had appeared before the Mead committee last month, at his own request, put "no limit whatsoever on that examination" and believed himself justified in concluding he had explained what the committee desired to know.

Wants Public to Get "Facts"

The rights he asked in a public appearance, May said, would enable the public to get all the facts.

"I am sure," he wrote Mead, "that your committee would not intentionally deny the usual democratic processes for a full and complete hearing in the presentation of testimony affecting me x x x. The benefit of counsel for proper direction and the rights of cross-examination are recognized universally in our system of justice as an integral part of the procedure which guarantees judicial exposition of facts x x x."

Mead told reporters that would turn the committee into a court. He said the committee did not intend to deviate from the usual practices of congressional investigating committees—and that these do not include the rights May mentioned.

Merchants Bid for First Division Spot at Reynolds Field

Hospital Entertains Top Walton Crew; Roberts-Hess, Reynolds Away

The Dixon Merchants, who have been subjected to various and sundry indignities during the major portion of the Midwest league campaign this summer, will get a chance to edge back into the first division tomorrow when they take on the Brooklyn Legion at Reynolds field.

The other local feature this week end pits Walton against the State hospital at the hospital grounds. Walton confidently expects to hold the Western division reins they took from Reynolds last week by virtue of a 3 to 2 victory over the latter at Walton.

Reynolds At Harmon
Reynolds moves into Harmon tomorrow determined to keep pace with the leaders, and unless their hosts, who have whipped only the cellar-dwelling State hospital team this year, show a decided reversal of form, the Western race will become more of a two-club race than before.

Brooklyn Legionnaires currently are resting in fourth place, a notch above the Merchants. The West Brooklyn club has broken even in eight trips to the post this campaign. The Merchants, who possess three wins against five losses, can climb up even with Knauer's club if they win tomorrow. The Legion nine has lost its last two tussles in league circles.

Compton Dangerous
Meanwhile, Roberts & Hess, riding comfortably ahead of the Eastern pack is scheduled to get a stiff test from a swiftly improving Compton team which now is riding in second place on seven victories against only a pair of reversals. A defeat tomorrow for the locals, who have notched nine straight triumphs, wouldn't dislodge them from their lofty perch, but would introduce complications in the Eastern pennant picture.

Lurking menacingly in the Western division pennant picture's future, Amboy attempts to further itself tomorrow at Cherry, where they go up against a club which is reported to have improved itself recently.

Franklin Grove at Sublette
Fresh from a paralyzing 31 to 5 victory over Ohio two weeks ago in a "crucial" third place test, Amboy promises to prove troublesome the rest of the distance for Walton and Reynolds.

Ohio draws the weekly bye in the Western this week, after whipping Harmon Sunday to regain a share of third place for Amboy.

In other sectors, Franklin Grove will journey to Sublette for a cellar battle with that club. Lee, riding in third place in the Eastern circuit, moves into Welland for a game which they must win to remain in a pennant contending position.

Clarence Kelly, one of the stalwarts of the team, who joined the Merchants only recently, was lost to the club last week when he injured a knee in the game at Compton. Running out an extra-base hit in the first inning, Kelly tripped over second base and had to leave the ball game.

17 Horses Entered in Arlington Race

Chicago, June 13—Maine Chance farm's Pet Pilot took top billing in an overnight entry list of 17 two-year-olds for today's $52,275 Arlington Futurity—highest race for juveniles in the nation this year.

A crowd of 35,000 was expected to pack fashionable Arlington park for the Futurity and the other feature, the $30,000 Dick Welles Handicap, a mile gallop.

Seventeen thoroughbreds also were named for the Welles, including five candidates for the $50,000 added Arlington classic July 27—Main Chance farm's Lord Boswell and Harvey's Pal, William Heli's Rippey, John March's Mighty Story and the Broilite farm's With Pleasure.

Among leading contenders bidding with Jet Pilot for the first prize of $67,375 in the six furlong futurity will be Heli's Cosmic Bomb, C. C. Tanner's Colonel O'F and Fred W. Hooper's Education, a yearling sales bargain for $60 which was the leading 2-year-old of the Florida season.

Brooklyn Plunges; Race Tightens as Bruins, Cards Win

Bosox Dump Tigers and Hatton Spoils Sain's Perfect Game

(By The Associated Press)
Leave it to the Dodgers to upset one of major league baseball's most ancient traditions.

Of the 18 National league clubs that have led the pack on July Fourth only to yield first place to another team in the past 46 years, five of them represented Brooklyn. And it appeared today that unless the skidding Dodgers right themselves pretty quick, they might make it six of the last 19.

Last July Fourth, Leo Duracher's outfit enjoyed a seven game edge over the Cards and looked like a safe bet to oppose the American league entry in the World Series. Today, exactly six playing days later, the Redbirds have narrowed the gap to three and a half games, with an excellent opportunity to whittle Brooklyn's lead still further in a four-game series starting tomorrow.

Big Lead Vanishes
The Cardinals gained a game and a half on the league leaders yesterday by sweeping both ends of a double header from the New York Giants 2-1 and 5-4 while the Chicago Cubs handed the Dodgers their second straight defeat 13-2.

Howie Pollet ended the Giant's mastery over the Redbirds at Sportsman's park which had produced four New York victories in as many meetings. The New Orleans lefthander not only limited the Giants to five hits in outpitching Bill Voiselle in the opener, but came back to save the nightcap with a brilliant relief chore in the ninth inning.

Enos (Country) Slaughter broke up a 1-1 deadlock in the first game with a run-producing double, and scored what proved to be the winning run in the eighth inning of the nightcap when New York's third relief pitcher, Bob Joyce walked pinch hitter Erv Dusak with the bases loaded to force in Slaughter. After the first two batters greeted Red Barret with singles in the ninth, Pollet was summoned from the bullpen and proceeded to hold the dangerous Johnny Mize to a short outfield fly before pitching an inning-ending double play ball to Ernie Lombardi.

Lowrey Leads Cubs
Led by little Peanuts Lowrey who rammed home seven runners and scored three on a home run and two singles, the Cubs battered three Brooklyn hurlers for 15 hits and easily notched their 15th straight home triumph over the Dodgers.

The Cubs, shelled starter Rex Barney from the hill in the opening stanza with a five run barrage and continued their assault on Art Herring and Hal Gregg. Hank Wyse weathered a bad first inning when Brooklyn scored its runs and went on to register his ninth victory.

Dave (Boo) Ferris gained his 13th pitching success and his eighth straight over Detroit as the American league leading Boston Red Sox defeated the Tigers 4-2 to increase their margin over the idle New York Yankees to eight games. A crowd of 26,290 increased the Red Sox attendance for 40 home games to 740,517, 10,000 more than their previous record high set in 1942.

Hatton Spoils No-Hitter
Johnny Sain pitched a one-hitter as the Boston Braves eked out a 1-0 decision over the Cincinnati Reds. A double by Grady Hatton in the first inning prevented the elongated right hander from registering a perfect game as Hatton was the only Redleg to reach base.

The cellar dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates quelled a ninth inning Philadelphia rally to defeat the Phillies 4-3 and move to within three games of the seventh place Quakers.

With Dick Fowler bagging his sixth mound win, the Philadelphia Athletics chased starter Jack Kramer with a three run fourth inning and went on to defeat the St. Louis Browns 7-2.

Wet grounds prevented Washington at the Chicago White Sox from playing while the New York Yankees and Cleveland were enjoying an off day.

Sugar Ray Finds Self in Joe Louis' Realm

New York, July 13—(AP) — The fistie (fistful) didn't care much today about whether Sugar Ray Robinson knocked Southpaw Joe Curcio out in the first or second round at Madison Square Garden last night. They were wondering more about just what waloper, short of Joe Louis himself, could handle Welterweight Sugar Ray in the manner approved by the experts along scrambled ear alley.

The sugar man from Harlem took only one lump to stir up Joe, the southpaw swatter out of Jersey, for the entertainment of some 12,353 cash contributors.

"This 'lump' of a left hook landed just as the bell rang ending the first round of their scheduled ten-round. And inasmuch as Southpaw Joe was still flat on his back when the bell sounded to begin the second round, it didn't make much difference whether the folks figured the payoff should be for the first, second or forty-fifth. In chalking up his 68th win in 70 pro starts, the sugar man not only showed that he's the class of the welterweights—with all due respect to his forthcoming 147-pound title taffy pull with Champion Marty Served—but even the hardened Bash boulevard boulevardiers were wondering who, except boss man Joe Louis himself, figured to do anything with Sugar Ray. That's how good he looked. Robinson weighed in at 148½; Curcio 150½.

Bulla's Record 64 Good for Lead in Kansas City Meet

Kansas City, July 13—(AP)—High-flying Johnny Bulla of Chicago was hoping today that the gallery would continue to follow the favorites and let him and son Bobby continue their sensational work in the $20,000 victory bond Kansas City invitational golf tournament.

Seven-year-old Bobby, a budding golfer himself, was the loudest booster in a small portion of the 6,000 fans who trailed father Johnny in his 8-under par 64 that bust-out Hillcrest country club's 6,592-yard course record yesterday.

In breaking the course record of 66, which was equalled by early pace-setter Jimmy Hines of Chicago in the opening round, Bulla started out today 12 strokes under par at 132. He had a 68 on his first go.

Jimmy Hines Fades
Hines faded to a comparatively easy par 72 on the hard Hillcrest course and started today with a 138, the same figure boasted by persistent Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Sanford, Me., Stewart Alexander, Lexington, N. C., Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., and amateur Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O.

Nelson, Toledo, O., pre-tournament favorite, was in second place today by virtue of his 68-67-136 job for the first two days.

The tournament, Kansas City's first since Toney Penna, Cincinnati won a $5,000 open here eight years ago, was minus two of its most colorful stars following the withdrawal last night of British Open champion Sammy Snead, Hot Springs, Va., and Lawson Little, Monterey, Calif. Both the boys said the long trip from the British classic had them "down". Snead equaled par 72 yesterday, but was 13 strokes off the pace at 145. Little had the same score after a second round 71.

Mangrum A Contender
U. S. Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, was still within striking distance of the leader after taking a 3-under par 69 to his initial 70 for 139. Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and a pair of youngsters, Johnny Palmer, Baden, N. C., and Jackson Bradley, Long Beach, Calif., were tied with Mangrum.

The 140: at the start of today's round included Dale Morey, Springfield, Ill., former Louisiana State university basketball coach.

The playoff comes tomorrow with 25 of the 64 qualified players figuring in the take.

Section Man's Wife Saves Texas Train

Marshall, Tex., July 12—(AP)—A section foreman's wife was credited today with averting an accident on the Texas & Pacific railroad that officials said might have taken many lives.

When the Sunshine Special passed her home, Mrs. E. H. Morton heard a "strange sound" which she believed might be a broken rail. She called the traffic control operator here, who held up the third section of the Sunshine Special which had been scheduled

Late Inning Outbursts Decisive in Three Eye

(By The Associated Press)
Late inning rallies are pulling a lot of games from the fire in the Three-I league these days and the fans who are leaving early are missing some unusual scoring.

Last night the Decatur Comies piled up six runs in the first inning—then were scoreless the rest of the way while Terre Haute went to work and made two runs in the sixth and three in the seventh and eighth to fashion an 11-5 triumph on six hits.

Quincy ran up three tallies in the second inning, but Waterloo tied the count with three in the sixth for a 9-5 win—although out-hit 11-10. The Gems defense shook apart and they made six bobbles.

Davenport was leading Springfield 3-1 until the Browns bunched across four runs in the last of the eighth for a 5-3 verdict. Again the winning team was out-hit—10-9.

Danville also lost, leaving it tied for the lead with Davenport. The Dodgers were scoreless although collecting seven blows as Evansville cruised to a 3-0 win on five hits.

Zaharias Favorite to Tip Trans-Mississippi

Denver, July 13—(AP) — The steadiest operators in the women's Trans-Mississippi golf tournament—Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Polly Riley—met today (11 a. m. CDT) in a grueling 36-hole championship battle.

The Denver par-buster and Fort Worth, Tex., champion had mowed down all opposition in a four-match march to the title round.

Playing close to men's par, the Babe knocked out Mrs. Robert Monsted of New Orleans, 5 and 4. Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa, Tex., 7 and 5; Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia., 7 and 6, and Margaret Gunther of Memphis, Tenn., 6 and 4.

Miss Riley eliminated Alice Bauer of Long Beach, Calif., 3 and 2; Kay Pearson of Houston, Tex., 6 and 4; Betty Haemeler of St. Louis, 7 and 1; and Betty Mims White of Dallas, 4 and 3.

The powerful drives of Mrs. Zaharias, which have given her a 25 to 50 yard advantage off the tees in every match of the week, and the ice-cold steadiness developed in years of tournament competition made her a virtually unanimous favorite with the galleries.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK—Ray "Sugar" Robinson, 190½, New York, knocked out Joe Curcio, 150½, Newark, N. J., 2, SAN FRANCISCO—Ray Brown, 145½, Los Angeles, knocked out O'Neill Bell, 145½, Detroit, 3.
HONOLULU—Manuel Ortiz, 122½, Centro, Calif., knocked out David Kuli Kong Young, 123, Honolulu, 7. (Non-title).

Morton returned home from a trip to the store and went to investigate. He found a broken rail, collected a crew and fixed it.

means of fire detection and alarm."

The seven-man committee said testimony of witnesses placed discovery of the fire at between 12:20 and 12:30 a. m., and that the fire department received an alarm at 12:35. Avery Brundage, board chairman of the hotel, previously had denied reports that there had been a delay in sounding the alarm.

The committee reported "unprotected vertical stairway openings" served as a "principal means of the rapid spread of the heated gases, smoke and flame to the upper floors."

Use of combustible materials in the hotel's cocktail lounge "was in violation of the building code" in effect in 1934 when the lounge was constructed, the report added. It said use of wood paneling in the lobby "added to the fire hazard."

The committee recommended an approved alarm system for every hotel, with a city fire alarm box on the outside.

Fishing
Council Bluffs, Ia.—(AP)—A Council Bluffs woman complained to Don Jackson, Pottawattamie county attorney, about the manner in which a neighbor fishes.
The man doesn't go to the river to fish, she said. He's a vegetable fisherman.
First, she complained, his son surveys her garden by driving by on his bicycle to check likely "fishing" spots. Then the man, using a rod and reel, casts for vegetables.

Refugee Jews Captured After Dramatic Sea Dash

Dramatically seeking escape from authorities, 1300 refugee European Jews crowded aboard a former Canadian corvette recently and set out from an unnamed port in search of illegal refuge in Palestine. British warships spotted their vessel 73 miles out at sea, but could not act until an attempt was made to enter territorial waters. The refugees' journey eventually ended in a detention camp at Haifa, Palestine, with an official charge of being "a menace to navigation." Exclusive NEA photo by staff photographer Emil Reynolds.

WHAT MAKES A FREE GOVERNMENT?

Four score and six years ago, when another revolution threatened our free government, John Stuart Mill set forth the principles by which such government is permanently preserved. Adherence to those principles is as urgent today as it was in 1860:

"A people may prefer a free government, but if, from indolence, or carelessness, or cowardice, or want to public spirit, they are unequal to the exertions necessary for preserving it; if they will not fight for it when it is directly attacked; if they can be deluded by the artifices used to cheat them out of it; if by momentary discouragement, or temporary panic, or a fit of enthusiasm for an individual, they can be induced to lay their liberties at the feet even of a great man, or trust him with powers which enable him to subvert their institutions; in all these cases they are more or less unfit for liberty; and though it may be for their good to have had it even for a short time, they are unlikely long to enjoy it."

—Richards-Wilcox.

Farmers Assist
On Friday last week the neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wendle, came in with hay mowers to mow and rake the hay on their farm. The job was completed and Roy's hay is all made for him. On Monday morning nine tractors drove in the Wendle yard all ready to go in to the corn field. By ten o'clock their corn was all plowed. Mr. Wendle does appreciate the combined help of his neighbors. He is in a cast now at the hospital, but is doing satisfactorily his doctors report.
